Queen Elizabeth's Foundation has served the disabled community for 75 years. Working with a wide range of disabilities, the Foundation provides solutions to the needs of people with disabilities through the work of its four centres, striving for a standard of excellence in the delivery of its services.

QEF works to encourage and nurture each disabled person's drive for independence. Through mobility assessments, training for work, teaching of life skills, brain injury and rehabilitation, QEF provides opportunities for disabled people to more fully enter society and the workplace and to play a full and active part in the wider community.
